The Augustana Pastor

The Augustana Synod (Church) ended a century of history when it became a part of the Lutheran Church in America in 1962. Founded by Swedish immigrant pastors, and developing into a major religious denomination of the United States, it offers in retrospect a unique opportunity to study the sources of its strength and the nature of its growth. It was marked by a certain consistency from the first efforts to establish itself in Illinois, in 1850, to the end of its career as a separate body of over a thousand congregations and of more than half a million members. It possessed an unusual unity, and a flexible form of organization that held it together across all the nation and overseas in India, China and Africa.

The story of a church body is usually told in terms of its organization, constitution, leadership and institutions. But this often misses the essential life of the individual cell that makes the body—the congregation and its pastor. The strength of Augustana lay in a unified, dedicated ministry and a congregational loyalty which is hard to describe. The purpose of this study is to define the character of this ministry and to identify the parishes which grew up under its leadership.

The watershed of the century-long history is World War I. Before that period the majority of the pastors were born in Sweden, over 800 in all, and the spiritual life of the Church was nurtured on an inheritance from the Church of Sweden. The homes and regions from which the pastors came explain the pietistic, though churchly, nature of this inheritance. After the 1920s the native-born pastors are in ascendancy. New forms of religious expression appear. New programs and interests develop, and the life of the church is turned in new directions. Both the past and the future are viewed differently. Gradually Augustana merged into a larger setting, both theologically and associationally. These changes are reflected in the information that has been assembled here concerning the Augustana pastor.

The material is organized by years of ordination. Thus it is possible to follow the changes that subtly took place. We can follow the course of places of birth, both in Sweden and in this country. In general the homes from which the pastors came were modest, the parents hard-working farmers or artisans, family devotions were usual, and church membership taken seriously. In many cases confirmation left deep impressions. In the latter part of the Synod's history a considerable number of candidates came from ministers' homes, and we will find two or three generations of pastors. Otherwise not many came from homes of the professional class, although the record of pastors' children shows a great number entering professions.

Of primary importance is the education of the ministry. It is well known that the pioneers in the Synod were products of the Church of Sweden, where a university training was essential. Such was impossible here in the earlier years. So the leaders set up their own institution, Augustana Seminary and College, first at Chicago, in 1860-63, then at Paxton, 1863-75, and finally at Rock Island. It is a remarkable fact that throughout a century practically all the candidates for ordination had their theological training at this one central institution. In itself this bears on the unity of the ministry. Graduates of Gustavus Adolphus, Bethany, and Upsala colleges mingled with those of Augustana, and for several years prepared for a common ministry. There was diversity in their background, for their homes were around the nation, but at the Seminary they joined as one. In later years increasing numbers came with degrees from non-synodical schools, but they were usually from congregations in the Synod and had no difficulty in feeling at home.

The succession of ordination classes reflects the changes in the training of the applicants. In 1877 Augustana College graduated its first class with baccalaureate degrees. Before that date the students would be placed in college or seminary, according to their competence, and we have indicated only that they were in both, or one division. Of special interest are the students who came from Swedish schools, such as the Ahlberg (over fifty in number), or the Fjellstedt (twenty-five in number), or the universities of Uppsala and Lund, or normal (teacher training) schools. After 1877 a college degree was normal for admission to the Seminary, though a three year course, leading to a Bachelor of Divinity, did not become mandatory until 1900. No church body, to our knowledge, had higher requirements for its pastors' education. When the Seminary, in 1934, instituted a four-year course, with one year of internship, it pioneered a practice that has since become common.

The present study does not include the theological development of the Augustana Ministerium, but a few guide posts may point the course of the transition from a daughter church of Sweden to a sister church in the Lutheran family. This transition is evidenced in the changing academic influences on the candidate for ordination.

Attendance at the Ahlberg and Fjellstedt schools was a part of the preparation of a large number of Swedish-born pastors before 1900. These schools were products of the widespread revivals in biblical study, devotional literature, and missionary activity early in the 19th century. Leaders such as Peter Fjellstedt and Waldemar Rudin (at the Johannelund Missionary Institute) influenced both teachers and students at the Augustana Seminary.

After 1870, when the Synod joined the General Council (an organization of confessional Lutheran Synods in the United States, formed in 1867), a small number of students were drawn to the Lutheran Seminary in Philadelphia—among them future leaders of the church. Conversely, members of Eastern synods found their way to the faculties of Augustana colleges and seminary—Reck, Sandt, Bartholomew at Paxton and Rock Island, Sandtler and Uhler at St. Peter, while Revere Weidner added strength to the seminary faculty. Professors C.P. Krauth, H. E. Jacobs, and Luther Reed of the Philadelphia faculty were looked to as authoritative American interpreters of confessional Lutheran theology.

A series of articles in the Augustana Quarterly, 1928-1929, attempted to analyze the types of piety evident in the church at that time. S. G. Youngert described the influence of C.O. Rosenius, a Stockholm lay leader in the revivals of the middle of the 19th century, especially through his journal, Pietisten. S. G. Hagglund emphasized the legacy of Henric Schartau, the eminent theologian, psychologist, and churchman in the cathedral city of Lund. Emil Bergquist used the term "fundamentalist" for a group he discerned among pastors who were interested in a literalism of American Calvinistic origin. P.A. Mattson felt the Synod represented a churchly, evangelical type more practically than theologically inclined. The classification is not very definitive, but the articles reveal the various traditions and tendencies confronting the seminary student. Of importance, since the 1920's, was the growth of the Bible School movement.

During the last quarter-century of its history the Synod witnessed both a new interest in the theology of Swedish scholars, such as Nathan Soderblom, Gustav Aulen, and Anders Nygren, and an increasing attention to the social interests of American theologians, especially Walter Rauschenbusch and the Niebuhr brothers, Richard and Reinhold. An anniversary volume of 1960, entitled Centennial Essays, testified to a current keen interest in practical theology, stewardship, evangelism, world missions, peace and war, the place of women, education, changing standards of morality. These topics engaged the attention of the church and added new courses to the traditional theological seminary curriculum.

The interest of Augustana pastors in higher education may be traced in their pursuit of knowledge beyond that required for ordination. As early as 1870 the Synod sent one of its students to Sweden to obtain a doctor's degree at Uppsala University to prepare him for teaching in the Seminary. A fatal illness on his return frustrated this purpose. But soon others were seeking advanced degrees in this country, and before World War I Augustana pastors received Ph.D. degrees from Yale, Chicago, Minnesota, Brown, Iowa universities. A list not fully complete indicates that about ninety Augustana pastors have earned their Ph.D.'s in a large number of American universities, and some in Europe. Another fifteen have completed Doctor of Sacred Theology courses at Augustana, and some thirty have taken Doctor of Ministry degrees at various seminaries. The list of masters degrees is a long one, in various subjects, such as education, theology, and in more recent years, social work, and a growing number consists of those who have done advanced work in counselling and chaplaincies.

Ordination took place at the annual Synod conventions, and was the climax of the meeting. When the applicant had satisfied the educational requirements, successfully passed an oral colloquy and signed the declaration of faith, he was permitted to receive the sacred office in a solemn rite. The conventions were usually held in one of the larger churches of the Synod, and a pastor would always recall the place as well as the time of his ordination. Especially memorable were the anniversary conventions in Rock Island, in 1893, 1910, 1935, 1960, when guests from sister churches of the Lutheran world were present.

The body of this volume is concerned with the parishes served by the pastor after his ordination. In a few cases, where a pastor has been received from another church, dates will be given for the congregations he served in that church. It will be noted that some pastors moved very frequently, some quite rarely; a very few continued throughout their ministry in one place. Also the reader may wonder that the pastor often changed from one part of the nation to another. This witnesses to the degree of unity in the Synod. After 1870 the national body was divided into conferences, but the communication between them was constant, through common boards and agencies, and especially through the annual convention. A pastor could easily transfer from Iowa to New England, or Washington to Texas. And fellowship in seminary years led to recommendations. Nor can be forgotten the bonds forged within the congregations by the official organs, Augustana, for a century, after 1856, and The Lutheran Companion, since 1910.

If one compares the parish experiences in the early and later decades it will be apparent that great changes had taken place. The pastor of the first half of the century often ministered to a group of congregations, with a home base in one parish. In the later decades he was more normally in one place, but the places now included missionary positions in China, or India, or Africa, or South America. Also he might be in the employ of an agency of the Church, as a regional director of congregations, as a full-time president of a conference or synod, or as a chaplain in one of the many social service institutions of Conference or Synod. An increasing number were teachers or professors in the schools, colleges, or seminaries, here and abroad. And the large number of those engaged in various forms of counselling suggests changes in the forms of ministry.

The parish pastor usually found other interests in addition to his congregational duties. In an immigrant community he was concerned about the care of orphan children, the sick and the aged. The Synod or Conference asked him to serve on boards of children's homes, hospitals, and old peoples' homes. Many were active in the temperance movement or the Anti-Saloon League. Some participated in insurance companies or colonization projects.

As the years passed the Augustana congregation became integrated more closely with the community. Pastors became supporters of the Boy Scouts, and some were involved in their national councils. We find them leaders in Red Cross, in Y.M.C.A., in United Way, in Crop projects and in camping programs. Some served even as police magistrates and mayors, in choral and symphony groups. As a matter of course they became members of the local ministerial organizations—we have noted only cases where they attained leadership in state or regional associations. They became involved in the ecumenical movement, and representative Augustana pastors are found in the National Council of Churches, the Lutheran World Federation, the World Council of Churches, some in leading positions. A small number have been active in politics and gained seats in state legislatures. Recently pastors have been leaders in housing projects, and retirement centers and in mental health agencies.

To the call for service in the military, there has been a strong response. Deserving of further study would be the number who volunteered in the wars of this century. Augustana chaplains have been present in every branch of service in every field of combat, and many have continued in service to veterans in hospitals and as reserve officers. They have gained high rank, and one pastor has become chaplain to the U.S. Senate.

We have attempted to include pastors' contributions in literary fields. Now forgotten are the productions of those who wrote in Swedish. Yet high quality is found in the editorship of Augustana, in the 70-year long series of annuals—Korsbaneret (1880-1950), in Ungdoms Vännen (1895-1917), in the Sunday School text-books, Katekes and Biblsk Historia. Half a dozen pastors were recognized for their poetic collections. Eric Norelius started an interest in historical records and writing which has persisted. Where available we have given the titles of doctoral theses, which give a clue to the interests of the scholarly minded. Until the present generation the amount of original theological literature was small, partly because of the dependence on Swedish sources, first in the original, then in translated works. A few musically gifted and liturgically interested pastors were responsible for the early books of worship, the Hymnal, and the Junior Hymnal. In our own day Augustana pastors have been translators of worship books in China and Africa, and into Spanish. Others have had a part in the making of the Service Book and Hymnal, and the Lutheran Book of Worship. No one has ever adequately estimated the significant role played by the Augustana Book Concern in stimulating, encouraging, and recording the intellectual and religious life of both the ministry and laity of the Augustana Church. Even in the publication of the minutes of synod and conferences and of congregational histories, it has enriched the cultural resources of the whole body. In this activity pastors have given constant and intelligent leadership. In assessing the factors that made for unity and fellow-feeling in the Synod, the Book Concern must be awarded a prominent place, second, probably, only to the Seminary.

Too little attention has hitherto been given to the wife of the pastor, and to her place in the parsonage and the congregation. Who has sought to describe her service and trials as the pioneer pastor was gone for weeks at a time on his missionary journeys? Complaints are often heard as to the pastor's low salary—who more than she endured the consequences? What was her place in the difficult days of language transition with its dissensions? Yet in ministerial records, such as obituaries, her name may not even be mentioned, and congregational histories take her for granted. Yet she often represented the finest products of congregations and rendered service as significant as if she had been ordained. By the turn of the century she may have been a graduate of one of the church colleges. She was a leader in many a parish, and the Women's Missionary Society attested to her abilities.

We have tried to learn the names of the wives of pastors and the place and date of marriage—the place would be a credit to the local congregations (many married in Rock Island, when the Seminary was there, hence her home is not identified.) Significantly there were many cases of the wife preceding the husband in death. And the number of children—large in early years—betokens the cares of these mothers. They too shared the trials, disappointments, and failures of those whose record concluded with "resigned," "deposed," "dropped from the roll." This may be a belated tribute to a whole class of exceptional women, but at least it is a reminder of significant lives often lived in obscurity.

Almost one hundred years ago one of the promising leaders of the Synod, whom death felled early, wrote in reference to obituaries in Korsbaneret (The Banner of the Cross), "in our small synod each warrior who falls beneath the banner of the Cross deserves to be fondly remembered." Moved by that spirit, the author has sought to record, before their memories fade from us, the ministry of the 2,504 pastors who gave their lives to establish the foundations of more than a thousand parishes of the Lutheran Church in America.

Sources

A primary source for data on the pastors of the Augustana Church are the annual reports of the conventions from 1860-1962. Exceptions were rare of men being ordained at some other time or place than the Sunday of the convention week. The Minutes each year contains a list of the living pastors, those received from other synods (a very small number), and the class of ordinands for that year. The list gives the names of these pastors in the order of their ordination, their year and place of birth, the year of arrival in the United States, if foreign born, the time and place of ordination, and current address. Each year the list grew; the names of those deceased were indicated separately, periodically. In 1962 the final roll has 1,393 names of living pastors. From the beginning in 1860, each ordinand had to sign a declaration of faith—the doctrinal article of the church. The final subscription in 1962 had the number 2,514. This list, however, had some omitted numbers and a few duplications. (Some pastors who had left the Church, for instance, for service in the Church of Sweden, signed again on their readmission.) The corrected number is 2,504. These, then, were the members of the 102-year-old Ministerium, and these are the names included in this record.

The Minutes were originally in Swedish and bore the name Augustana Synodens Protokoll. When the Synod was organized in 1860 there were nineteen members who had been members of the Synod of Northern Illinois, some of whom had been ordained by that body. This Synod dated from 1851 and was started by Lutheran pastors of German background. The first Swedish immigrant pastors joined this group. In 1853 the Swedish—and some Norwegian—congregations were organized into a separate Conference of the Synod of Northern Illinois, and called the Mississippi Conference. Others were in the Chicago Conference, and in 1858 a Minnesota Conference was formed. The Minutes of the Mississippi Conference are printed in Eric Norelius' Tidskrift, 1898, and in translation are found in the Augustana Historical Society Publications, vol. X, 1944.

Since some Norwegian pastors and congregations joined in the formation of the Augustana Synod in 1860, the body was named "Den Skandinaviska-Lutherska Augustana Synoden i Nord America." The Norwegian members separated in 1869. Data on the Norwegian pastors are found in O.M. Norlie's Norsk Lutherska Prester i Amerika, 1843-1913, Minneapolis, 1914, and in O.N. Nelson's History of the Scandinavians in U.S., 2 vols., Mpls., 2d rev. edition, 1900.

Not until 1893 did the "Scandinavian" designation disappear. In that year the Synod adopted a new constitution and gave itself the name

"Den Evangeliska-Lutherska Augustana Synoden i Nord-Amerika." Thereafter this name appears in the Referat or Minutes of each convention. Name and constitution were in Swedish. Until 1921 the Minutes were printed in Swedish, from 1922 they were in English, under the title of Report of Synod. In 1948 the synodical constitution was again revised. The "Synod" was changed to "Church", and until the merger into the Lutheran Church of America in 1962 the official name was the Augustana Evangelical Lutheran Church. An Index of the Minutes from 1860 to 1962 appeared in the final convention report of that year.

The Synod was fortunate to number among its founders a man with historical interests, Eric Norelius. Although not himself a trained historian, his work De Svenska Lutherska Församlingarnes och Svenskarnes Historia i Amerika, 2 vols., 1890, 1916, Rock Island, Ill., remains an invaluable source for the beginnings and early years of the Synod. Especially noteworthy are the biographies of the founders. Another author to whom we owe much was Olof Olsson, the third president of Augustana College and Theological Seminary. In 1880 he started an annual called Korsbaneret (The Banner of the Cross), which included obituaries of those departed during the preceding year. This series, printed by the Augustana Book Concern, Rock Island, Illinois, continued until 1950 and is one of our most reliable sources for the careers of early Augustana pastors. (Indexes were provided in the volumes for 1929 and 1950). The obituaries are often similar to those appearing in the official organs of the Synod, Augustana (1856-1956), and The Lutheran Companion (1910-1962). Both the Journals and Korsbaneret usually included pictures of the deceased. Jubelalbum 1893, Carl A. Swensson and L. G. Abrahamson, has valuable information on the pastors ordained by 1893, but the work was hastily put together and its data need to be checked with other sources. A Ministry of Printing, Daniel Nystrom, 1962, is informative on the work of the Augustana Book Concern and its editorial staff.

As the use of English displaced Swedish in the churches, an attempt was made to reach the youth through the volumes of My Church (1915-1947) and the Augustana Annual (1948-1962). These annuals, also printed by the Augustana Book Concern, served some of the functions of Korsbaneret, but give scantier details for our purpose.

An annual, Prairieblomman, Rock Island, 1900-1913, sometimes has longer treatments of the more prominent personalities of the Synod. A few of these have been subjects of full-scale biographies. Fritiof Ander wrote a doctoral dissertation on T.N. Hasselquist 1931, and Emory Lindquist wrote the story of Erland Carlsson, Shepherd of an Immigrant People 1978. Eric Norelius, Pioneer Midwest Pastor and Churchman 1954, was the work of Emory Johnson. Olof Olsson, The Man, His Work and His Thought was written by E. W. Olson 1941. Both Olof Olsson and Carl Swensson have figured largely in Emory Lindquist's books on Lindsborg and Bethany College: Smoky Valley People, a History of Lindsborg, Kansas 1953, Vision for a Valley, Olof Olsson and the Early History of Lindsborg 1970, and Bethany in Kansas, the History of a College 1975. A Swedish author, Sam Rönnegård, has made Esbjorn a subject of a book which has been translated by Everett Arden under the title Prairie Shepherd 1952. Andreen of Augustana 1942 memorialized the 34-year presidency of Gustav Andreen.

In 1870 the Synod established conferences, which also held annual conventions and issued reports. Often it is necessary to go to these for information on pastors serving within the borders of a conference, since reports of presidents include items not found elsewhere. The conferences were: California, Canada, Central (Illinois, Michigan, Indiana), Columbia (the Northwest), Iowa, Minnesota, Nebraska, New England, New York, Red River Valley (W. Minn., the Dakotas), Superior (Upper Mich., Wisconsin), Texas, and W. Central (Kansas, Colo.). Some of these have detailed histories of congregations and records of pastors, notably those of Minnesota and Iowa: Minnesota Konferensens af Evangelisk Lutherska Augustana-synodens Femtio Års Jubileum, Minneapolis, 1890; Minnesota konferensens af Augustana-synoden och dess Församlingars Historia, Emil Lund, 2 vol., Rock Island, Ill., 1926; Iowa konferensens af Augustana-synoden och dess församlingars historia, Emil Lund, Rock Island, Ill., 1916. More detailed are the congregational histories where these are available. For pastors who have spent longer or shorter periods in the Canadian provinces we are indebted to Ferdy E. Baglo's Augustana Lutherans in Canada 1962.

Our main source for the educational records are the catalogues of Augustana College and Theological Seminary, beginning with the Student-Katalog vid Augustana College and Seminary 1875. Early catalogues furnish data on the Swedish backgrounds of students, such as birth dates, places, and schools attended. In most cases we can trace the length of time spent at the school; records of degrees are complete. In the first decade students studied subjects in which they were deficient. By 1870 differentiation appears between two years in the Seminary and two and three years in College, with preparatory department. In 1875 President Hasselquist declared that students might enter the Seminary after the junior year in college, and that it was hoped soon to expand the two years in Seminary to three. After 1877 the college offered the B.A. degree and gradually the degree was required for admission to the Seminary. In 1889-90 the Seminary adopted a three-year course, and in 1894 gave its first B.D. degree. Students might still enter after the junior year in college and not fulfil the degree requirements of Hebrew and Greek. Although this might satisfy ordination rules, the graduate could not receive the B.D. degree. He would be listed simply as "graduate," or "S.M." (Sacri Ministerii Candidate) or "diploma." After 1900 the great majority were B.D. holders. In a very few cases a candidate for ordination without academic preparation might be required to take a few specified courses—a minimum course; he was awarded only a certificate of completed work. The Augustana Alumni Register 1924 is a helpful source on material of graduates of College and Seminary, including degrees of students from other colleges than Augustana.

In 1948 the Seminary became an independent institution and published its own catalogues, with records of degrees, until it joined other Lutheran seminaries to form the Lutheran School of Theology in Chicago in 1962. In 1972 that School raised the B.D. degrees of all former graduates of member schools to the degree of Master of Divinity. We have followed the rule of indicating the award given at the time of graduation, e.g. diploma, graduate, B.D., though since 1972 the B.D. holder from the Augustana Seminary is entitled to use the Master's degree.

The Ministerium extended to foreign lands. Information on the pastors who labored on the mission fields in India, China, Africa, Japan, and Latin America would be difficult to gather except for the informative and well-edited book by S. Hjalmar Swanson, Foundation for Tomorrow, A Century of Progress in Augustana World Missions, Minneapolis, 1960. In brief summary form he has listed all the foreign missionaries of the Augustana Lutheran Church according to the fields of service, from 1879 to 1959.

Throughout the hundred years wives received little notice. It has not been possible always to obtain the names of women who may really have been pastors' assistants for decades, yet remain unnamed and unnoticed. An exception is a personal collection made by an Augustana pastor, Anders J. Anderson. For years his hobby was to collect material on ordained pastors—date and place of birth, picture at the time and sometimes of the place of ordination. He seems to have been particularly interested in relationships of pastors' families. His attention to marriage and family connections has aided the present author appreciatively. Anderson, however, gives no sources for his data and verification is difficult. He probably derived his information from newspapers, or even from personal knowledge. The collection covers the years 1860-1960, the year of his death. Through the courtesy of his son, Pastor Philemon Anderson, the notebooks are now a part of the archives of Augustana College.

To obtain information on pastors ordained in the Augustana Church and now living, the author has employed some 2,000 questionnaires. This mass of information—now in the archives—has been the source for the data on these pastors and is quite complete. Lacking, often, is material on men who resigned from or demitted the ministry.

Problems have been encountered in the search for information on those who have died, resigned from office, or been dropped from the roll since the merger in 1962. Only their names are listed in the yearbooks of the Lutheran Church in America. Notices of death of pastors do occur in the church paper The Lutheran, but details are meager. Therefore, data have to be sought in the Minutes of the constituent synods, thirty-three in number after the merger. Depending upon the place of death and his synodical membership the deceased might be the subject of a necrology in the Minutes. Some synods give full accounts, while others hardly notice the passing of men who have given their lives to the Church. The Minutes of all the synods since 1962 have been examined for this study: Caribbean, Central Canada, Central Pennsylvania, Central States, Eastern Canada, Florida, Illinois, Indiana-Kentucky, Iowa, Maryland, Metropolitan New York, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, New England, New Jersey, North Carolina, Northeastern Pennsylvania, Ohio Synod, Pacific Northwest, Pacific Southwest, Red River Valley, Rocky Mountain, Slovak Zion, South Carolina, Southeastern, Southeastern Pennsylvania, Texas-Louisiana, Upper New York, Virginia, Western Canada, Western Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Wisconsin-Upper Michigan. Occasionally the official newspapers of the synods may yield some items, and correspondence with synod offices has brought some results. Sometimes information has been solicited in personal letters to families of deceased pastors. The attempt has been made to bring the records of men ordained before 1962 up to the year 1980.

Format

The order of names in the record is chronological, by years and place of ordination or reception into the Ministerium. Date and place of birth are followed by the names of parents, where these are available. College and seminary graduations are indicated and institutions where graduate studies have been pursued, including degrees. Then follow the places where the pastor has served. As far as possible the years of service in each parish are given. Where it has been necessary to trace a person's career through the address list in successive years of the Minutes, the indicated years in a parish may not be altogether precise because of the timing of reports. But it is unlikely that the variance would exceed a year. In some cases the parish may include a number of congregations, in which case not all may be noted. Increasingly, pastors have been engaged in other than parish offices—these are listed with parish services. When information is available, other activities, in church or community, which parallel parish periods are included. Here the range has to be limited. We have omitted activities that may be common to many pastors, especially local ministerial associations and service clubs. We have tried to list those that are of unusual service to the community or involve state and regional associations. Membership on boards and agencies of the church are noted, but not positions held, except in the case of synodical and conference officers. As a rule the boards or commissions are those of elected members, and for considerable periods. While sources vary as to the use of the terms "committee" and "commission" where they are distinguishable we have abbreviated the former to "com.," the latter to "comm.," In general the honors listed have been limited to awards commonly recognized. R.V.O., K.V.O., R.N.O., K.N.O., are abbreviations of awards given by the Swedish government and may be translated as Knights (Riddare) or Commanders (K) of the Order of Vasa or North Star. Doctor of Divinity is abbreviated D.D.; Doctor of Laws, LL.D.; Doctor of Letters, Litt. D. Authorship of books or articles is included only if the writings are unusual or widely known. Where possible the date and place of marriage are given, with the wife's maiden name and the number of children. Finally, when the pastor is deceased, the date of death is stated.

In the course of collecting the material, other data than are included here have come to the writer's attention. The material fills a dozen large notebooks and over 1,000 completed questionnaires. This collection will be housed in the archives of the Denkmann Library, Augustana College, and open to those who may be seeking further information. Likewise, if there are corrections, and there is no doubt that such may occur, the archivist will make appropriate corrections as they are received. Sometimes the sources themselves disagree.

The index lists the 2,504 names in alphabetic order. The year given is that of ordination, and the data will be found on the page indicated.

Acknowledgements

The archives of Augustana College have been the chief source of material assembled in this study. I am in debt to the personnel of the Denkmann Library for countless hours of help in the use of its collections. The Rev. Joel Lundeen of the Lutheran Church in America Archives at the Lutheran School of Theology in Chicago, and Drs. Emory Johnson and Chester Johnson, archivists of the Minnesota Synod at Gustavus Adolphus College, have been of invaluable assistance. I am grateful for the use of the collections of Minutes of L.C.A. Synods at Gettysburg Theological Seminary, and the Rev. Richard Pearson has given help for some material in the Eastern states.

In the task of correspondence and the sending of over 2,000 questionnaires I have enjoyed the constant aid of Mrs. Dorothy Liljegren. For the preparation of the typed manuscript I have depended on Mrs. Fingal Peterson, whose patience and precision have much to do with the final preparation of this volume.

The study was begun under the auspices of the Augustana Historical Society and Augustana College. They advanced initial funding, and I gratefully recall their initial encouragement. The venture owes its realization to a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities which made possible the culmination of a work of many years. This publication by the Augustana Historical Society coincides with the 50th anniversary of the Society's founding in 1930.
